

[WINTER WILD]

Hairstylist Lara Steer at DSalon in Ibrag shares the coolest AW15 hair spotted at Fashion Week.

The Autumn/Winter 2015 catwalks saw an array of cool new hair trends. Some of our favourites include short choppy fringes, braids and plaits, the wet-look hair look, and obviously experimental bold colours, such as the pink hues at Gucci and the white-blonde washes at Temperley London.

The new season also saw a return of poker straight hair and sultry centre partings, sculpted clean ponytails, the comeback of hair accessories, and namely pretty pins - such as those at Dolce & Gabbana.

Stay ahead of the fashion pack with our full rundown of AW15's top hair trends... This fall, your statement accessories are going to become one with your hair: J.W.Anderson's scraped-back twists created a cool backdrop for the designer's oversize geometric earrings; Simone Rocha's textured waves looked best wrapped around the throat and layered with pearl necklaces; and Burberry Prorsum's fuzzy waves were tucked into an oversize collar or scarf.

TREND 1 > RED HAIR RULES ►

From Rianne van Rompaey to Varya Shutova, Pre-Raphaelite beauties have been dominating the runways this week, but no further proof of the industry's redhead mania was needed than when 90s supermodel Maggie Rizer appeared at Prabal Gurung with a deep red rinse that added a new knockout depth and dimension to her famous mane.

◀ TREND 2 > BOLD COLOURED HAIR

We're loving the stoned-washed hair colours that rocked the Fashion Week's runways. Head-turning unusual bold hair colours made an impact and were sported by some of the coolest models around. Stone wash powdery silvery/petrol hues are a big trend

TREND 3 > ACCESSORISE ►

Thanks to the irreverence of the top hair stylists, hair accessories are staging a big comeback. Among the most successful was Prada's glittering hair slide, shiny blindfolds at Fendi and Chanel, and of course the floral option from Dolce & Gabbana. Be it little head bands or chunky ponytail cuffs, it's very much okay to accessorise and bling it on a little, as long as it looks fashionably cool.

◀ TREND 4 > HEALTHY HAIR

Seen on nearly every runway, this is the hair trend that's impossible to miss. Wavy, straight, untreated, or lightly crimped, when it comes to hair, perfect healthy hair is the new black. There's no excuse to not having healthy locks in 2016, with the launch of revolutionary repairing treatments that truly rebuild the hair's integrity once added to your hair colour mix. Only available at leading salons, this is the secret for 2016 to shine and repair in one.
